Alzheimer disease and amyotrophic lateral sclerosis: common thread linking neurodegenerative and neuroinflammatory mechanisms. Alzheimer disease (AD) and amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS) are two of the most common neurodegenerative disorders, for which no effective treatments are currently available. While AD and ALS are considered to be distinct diseases, recent data suggest that there may be a link between these two neurodegenerative disorders. In this review, we will first summarize the data that link AD to ALS. These data are beginning to provide a better understanding of the underlying mechanisms that are shared between these two diseases. We will then provide evidence that ALS can lead to AD-like pathology, including the presence of tau pathology and amyloid pathology in the hippocampus and cortex. Based on the close relationship between these two disorders, we propose that immunotherapy may be a common therapeutic approach for both diseases. Lastly, we will discuss the central role of TNF-alpha in the pathology of both diseases and the possibility of using TNF-alpha inhibitors as a common therapeutic approach for both diseases. Since joining the cast of Marvel's Iron Fist, Mike Colter's Danny Rand, aka The Immortal Iron Fist, has developed an incredible relationship with his surrogate daughter, a 12-year-old girl named Jessica Henwick. The two have built a brother-sister bond over the last two seasons, much like Danny and his surrogate brother and mentor, Colleen Wing, before him. The two make their friendship even stronger in the newest promo for the upcoming Iron Fist season as the children explore the orphanage where Colleen met Danny. Iron Fist spoilers below! The Iron Fist season 4 trailer focuses on Danny when he is younger and is both amazed and disturbed by the chaos around him, learning that his mother was murdered by the Hand and that his stepfather, Wong, is the source of said chaos. Danny also encounters the Devil of the Fist in a hooded form in the third act of the trailer, and he's clearly seen arguing
