Adobe Photoshop CS5

Q: Aparently libusb_load_device() misses some devices On most devices, libusb_load_device() works fine. The returned descriptors are for example: { 'Manufacturer': 'Example Company, Inc.', 'Product Name': 'Seagate Expansion External Hard Disk', 'Serial Number': '000000102000000', 'Interface': 0x0001, 'Class': 0x0001 } On other devices, the returned descriptors are: { 'Manufacturer': 'Example Company, Inc.', 'Product Name': 'Example Company, Inc.', 'Serial Number': '000000102000000', 'Interface': 0x0001, 'Class': 0x0003 } Basically, only the Product Name and the Class are the same, except for the first device. The code I use to check the libusb_error is: if (libusb_error(handle, 0)) return -1; I've already gone through the libusb documentation. The second argument to the function libusb_error is passed to the function libusb_free_usb_device_list. Does anyone have any idea of what I'm doing wrong? Is it maybe because the Device belongs to an Example Company, Inc.? A: I'm the author of the code. If a libusb_device is not for example expanded, then I'll use the Product Name with the given class, because this should be the serial number. Also, if the class is not known (0x0001), then I'll use the Manufacturer. This will make sure that the product name (the serial number for the device) can be found. Q: refract-server is not listed when running npm install I am trying to install refract-server but when I run the command npm install refract-server I get the following error. Could not find refract-server in any of the source mirrors locally: /Users/joe/.npm/registry/refract-server-5.0.4 globally: /Users/joe/.npm/registry/refract
