I know these facts, but I am unable to prove them. Any hints/solutions to this problem will be much appreciated. A: For the first, suppose  $x \in \bigcap A \bigcap B$ . Then  $x \in A$  and  $x \in B$ , hence  $x \in A \cap B$ . For the second, suppose  $x \in \bigcap A \bigcap B$ . By definition,  $x \in A$  and  $x \in B$ , hence  $x \in A \cap B$ , so  $x \in A$  and  $x \in B$ . Q: how to return int in VB.net? Closed captioning on the rise in the UK Time and again I've seen the argument put forward that the closed captioning on television should not be mandatory. I've seen similar arguments for radio - the so-called "Five Freedoms" argument, where people say that people shouldn't be required to be able to hear broadcast because they don't want to be required to have hearing aids or wear glasses. I am aware of the argument, of course. I also know that those who are opposed to closed captioning tend to put that opposition to use. And I'm pleased to report that the view is growing. Last week I went to the CMA Awards dinner - and I was involved in the CMA's first Closing Bell ceremony. This annual function is always good fun. I always think it's a bit of a shame that I can't go along to the Closing Bell ceremony every year. While I attended the 2008 event, the reason I couldn't make the 2009 event was because of the CMA's huge award evening and I didn't want to miss out on that. Well, this year it was a different story. I did get the chance to go along to the Closing Bell. And what a day it was. It was a very inspiring event. The main event was a live call-in with Jonathan Ross 6d1f23a050
