She said, "I don't have any magic solution, but it's a symptom of what we're looking at, the process we're looking at. He [Sharif] has taken a position that is unacceptable to us." She then said that Pakistan's actions in the past one-and-a-half years have jeopardized the civilian control of the armed forces. She said, "What is happening in Pakistan is absolutely unacceptable. We've been acting at the behest of a military government and that is not acceptable to us." She then said that she would not rule out blacklisting of Pakistan. She said, "We're reviewing the blacklist. Our economy is strong, we're working with the IMF to get out of this mess. We have a lot of concessions already and an incredible amount of economic assistance from India." The remarks come on the heels of government officials in both India and Pakistan announcing that political dialogue between the two countries will be restarted soon. However, Prime Minister Narendra Modi has barred his Pakistani counterpart Nawaz Sharif from visiting the country.
